Finland in the World Media in 2019

Ministry for Foreign Affairs review of 2019

The new government and the media coverage it has received have been like winning the lottery for Finland's brand.

– NORWAY

Finland's overall rating

In 2019, Finland's reputation in the world media remained unchanged, with the average again more than 4 on a scale of 1 to 5

Sanna Marin, equality and education led Finland's visibility in the world media in 2019

2019

2018

2017

The most prominent themes

Sanna Marin became a phenomenon in the international media in December, bringing Finland to the limelight

” The big news at the end of the year was Sanna Marin’s election as Prime Minister – everyone on the street seems to know about it. [...] Between 8 and 15 December, there were more than 1,500 news reports related to Marin published in the United States. This included all the major media houses in the US, from The New York Times to The Washington Post and from NPR to NBC. Finland’s new Prime Minister also featured on social media and late-night shows.
– UNITED STATES

” As a rule, Germany is not interested in Finland’s domestic politics. For example, the criticism that Foreign Minister Haavisto received did not make it to the news. But Sanna Marin is completely different.
– GERMANY

” After December, the name of the Prime Minister – Sanna Marin – was recognised by all Norwegians. – NORWAY

” The election of Sanna Marin as Prime Minister of Finland in December received a lot of coverage in the Danish media. After Marin’s election, the newspaper Extra Bladet wrote that ‘wild things are happening in Finland at the moment’. – DENMARK

” Election of Sanna Marin as Prime Minister has brought about positive attention towards Finnish politicians. – CHINA

” The election of Sanna Marin as Prime Minister was probably the most significant news about Finland in the Myanmar media; a young successful female politician is held in high esteem here just like in other countries.
– MYANMAR

The elections and the new government provided something to talk about all year

” The elections were followed relatively eagerly in all major media, and Swedes were particularly interested in the popularity of the Finns Party. The tone was mainly neutral and matter-of-fact. Both before and after the elections, the popularity and development of the Finns Party were compared to the Sweden Democrats, a similar populist party in Sweden. The success of young women also received coverage.

– SWEDEN

” Several changes in government were noted in 2019 in a country known for its political stability. People are interested in the phenomenon, and it is linked to pan-European developments and the growing influence of populist movements.

– PERMANENT REPRESENTATIVE TO THE EU

” The resignation of the Sipilä government in March, just five weeks before the parliamentary elections, the victory of the Social Democrats, the resignation of Prime Minister Rinne in December, and the appointment of Marin as the new Prime Minister, all emerged as the most important news from Finland. The role of women in the Marin government, in particular, was prominently featured in newspapers and in many news magazines and women’s magazines, which praised Finland as the happiest country in the world, a leader in environmental and well-being issues, and now also a country led by a young prime minister. – NETHERLANDS

” The rise of Sanna Marin as prime minister and the new young and female-dominated government made headlines, and interest in Finland has been staggering [...] The new government and the media coverage it has received have been a lottery win for Finland’s brand. – NORWAY

Prime Minister Marin's example strengthened the image of the uniqueness of equality in Finland

”After Marin's election as Prime Minister, there was a great deal of interest in Finnish gender equality and the employment of women with families. – SWITZERLAND

”Sanna Marin was described in the Danish media as an example of 'social mobility', who grew up in a rainbow family with two mothers. [...] the article described how Marin had said that the environment where she grew up gave her a fundamental belief that all people are equal. – DENMARK

”Finland's reputation as a gender equality model country was boosted when Sanna Marin was chosen as the new Prime Minister in December. – CHINA

”Sanna Marin and the new government have enhanced the image of Finland as an example of an equal nation. – SINGAPORE

Gender equality was also discussed, thanks to the HÄN campaign

- ” Topics relating to gender equality also received good coverage, since this is a topical issue in Japan nowadays – Japan dropped to 121st, whereas Finland ranked 3rd in the WEF Global Gender Gap Index. The Foreign Ministry’s HÄN Campaign was nicely covered in the media, resulting in 86 articles written from the award-giving ceremony with President Halonen, and the press release the Embassy’s Press Section, sent out prior to the event. – JAPAN
- ” In June, Ambassador Mikael Antell spoke about the HÄN campaign and the background of the HÄN phenomenon in the Språkteigen programme on NRK’s P2 radio channel. – NORWAY
- ” Finland presented the HÄN Honour to the Rumah Kita Bersama Foundation. – INDONESIA
- ” Colombia, a big football country, covered the news of equal pay for female football players. – COLOMBIA

The most prominent news stories about Finland were reported in a very positive tone

” ‘Pretty damn cool’
(Viva magazine on Sanna Marin becoming Prime Minister)
– THE NETHERLANDS

” The articles about Marin have been very positive, and they have created a great image of the Finnish government. – HONG KONG

The country's reputation of having the best education system in the world remains

” The Finnish education system continues to be a success: it was one of the most prominent news topics in the media throughout the year. Finland's high-quality education system has been well known in Thailand for several years. – THAILAND

” Finland's high-quality education system was the topic that received the most media coverage in every possible media throughout the year. Finland was almost invariably mentioned as a model country when it comes to education. [...] The meeting between Olli-Pekka Heinonen and the Mexican Minister of Education gained extraordinary visibility even in the main news on TV. – MEXICO

” The Finnish education system is well-known, and it maintains its position as one of the most interesting topics about Finland. There continues to be demand for Finland's expertise, products and services in the educational sector. – POLAND

The media paid attention to the government's ambitious climate policy

- ” The ambitious government programme aroused interest in the summer, and the image of Finland as a pioneer in combating the climate crisis spread in the media. – NORWAY
- ” Finland's ambitious climate policy and the target of climate neutrality for 2035 also received considerable coverage, although the media also called for concrete measures to achieve the target. – SWEDEN
- ” Various climate-related articles referring to Finland's ambitious climate targets (carbon neutrality for 2035, phasing out of coal burning by 2029) and the proposed solutions to achieve these targets were published in a number of major mainstream media (FAZ, ZDF, Zeit, Stern). – GERMANY
- ” Special attention was paid to climate-friendly policy in Finland. In the column Commentaries from Nordic countries, in Latvijas Avize, Ambassador Riitta Korpivaara wrote the article 'Step by step towards fossile-free world'. – LATVIA

Climate issues were also highlighted in news stories about Finland's EU Presidency

” ‘Finland fights for climate during its EU Presidency’ [...] The priorities of Finland's EU Presidency on climate issues were well-publicised in the Greek media, and some articles also analysed the use of the money conventionally spent on presents to the heads of state to combat climate change instead. – GREECE

” Climate policy was placed at the forefront of most news stories related to the EU Presidency. Climate issues were exceptionally strongly present in Madrid as the UN climate talks and COP25 moved to Madrid at the end of the year. – SPAIN

” Finland's priority on climate issues was noted in a very positive light in the Brussels media, especially in the early stages of the Presidency. – BELGIUM

” ‘Finland's EU Presidency wants to be ecologically sustainable,’ read LUSA's headline, and the story continued: ‘With the slogan ‘A sustainable Europe – a sustainable future’, Finland sets an example and limits its carbon footprint by holding fewer meetings, by providing organic food and by offsetting emissions.’ – PORTUGAL

” Turkish media widely covered Deputy Minister Faruk Kaymakçı's statements during the opening reception in July. Mr. Kaymakçı emphasized the expectation from Finland's chairmanship for the revival of ‘Helsinki spirit’, where the negotiations started between EU and Turkey in 1999 during Finland's presidency. There were comments in several news outlets as well on the same subject. Towards the end of the term, the Finnish chairmanship was depicted as rather ‘low-profile and did not meet the expectations’. – TURKEY

Other prominent themes

Finland – still the happiest country in the world

” Although Finland was already at the forefront of the happiness report in 2018, the coverage in 2019 was even greater; perhaps the first time at the top spot was seen as a curiosity, but the second time it was more real. – SWEDEN

” Finland’s reputation in the Australian media has stayed much the same. Most reports acknowledge the country as the happiest in the world. – AUSTRALIA

” Finland’s ranking as the happiest country in the world for two consecutive years as well as its good ranking in other international comparisons (e.g. the IMD Smart City Index and the Global Innovation Index, the Work-life Balance Index, tourism), further boosted the country’s reputation. – SINGAPORE

” The biggest hit in Vietnamese Media related to Finland is ‘Finland again ranked the happiest country in the World’. Even though this is not the first time Finland is ranked the happiest country, this information has been repeated again and again through the years, and now it has somehow become a ‘brand’ for Finland. – VIETNAM

Finnish food is attracting more interest

” Finnish food, drink and food products were well covered in the media; many stories were related to Finland having been the theme country at the world’s largest food fair, the International Green Week. – GERMANY

” Pulled oats conquered the Netherlands in June and received a great deal of praise in the media and blogs. The product was deemed to be a delicious meat substitute. Even De Volkskrant’s food writer cooked it in a wok and was positively surprised. – NETHERLANDS

” The Finnish education system and Finnish food culture featured relatively regularly in the French media. – FRANCE

Exports of Finnish expertise are gaining coverage

” Finnish export products that have featured are tourism and the themes of media visits such as education, circular economy, environmental policy and Cleantech. - HONG KONG

” Finnish expertise in waste management particularly gained a lot of coverage, even in the national media. - RUSSIA

” Cultural exports gained the most visibility as Finland partnered with Vienna Design Week, Austria’s largest design event, in autumn 2019. Eight Finnish design companies participated in the week-long event. Similarly, Finnish alcohol products gained coverage when Finland was a partner in Vienna’s Craft Beer Festival in November. - AUSTRIA

” Healthtech and ICT innovations (including Slush and hackathons), 5G technology, disposal solutions, cultural exports (Osmo Vänskä, the Moomins and Santa Claus) and xylitol have gained considerable coverage. - KOREA

Nokia and circular economy were the most interesting phenomena in business

” [...] Nokia’s decision to open a centre of excellence with 150 highly qualified employees at its global service centre. – PORTUGAL

” Nokia’s 5G networks are regularly featured in the news, especially due to the uproar around Huawei and Canada’s tense relations with China. – CANADA

” Finns are still known especially for education, winter and Nokia. The image of Finland as a provider of circular economy and environmentally friendly solutions has developed in recent years, and, consequently, Finns are known as high-tech experts. – INDONESIA

” Finland is highly esteemed as a responsible country in climate issues, and our expertise in circular economy and the Smart City concept are also widely recognised. – MEXICO

The sauna and Finland are inseparable

” In response to the current Japanese sauna boom and Visit Finland’s campaigns in the field, some Japanese travel agencies have started offering sauna tours to Finland for their customers. – JAPAN

” Fodor’s Travel: 10 Totally Insane Saunas You Can Only Find in Finland. – UNITED STATES

” The Finnish sauna is attracting more attention, and practically all travel stories mention the new design saunas Löyly and Allas. – SWEDEN

” Helsinki’s reputation as an interesting tourist destination remains, and the thriving sauna culture, in particular, is often mentioned. – NORWAY

The features that make Finland an attractive tourist destination are Lapland, nature and the Northern Lights

” Many French people who have got to know Finland and Finnish culture have become infatuated with Finland. French people are growingly aware of Finland. – FRANCE

” Media coverage remains largely focused on Finland as a winter destination. This includes attractions like the Santa Claus Villages, activities like dogsledding or snowmobiling and experiences like stay in an igloo to watch the Northern Lights. Finland has also received attention in Australian media as one of the safest countries to visit in the world, in particular, female solo travelers. – AUSTRALIA

” Finland is constantly featured as a pleasant tourist destination. In general, nature is what attracts tourists. Finland: silence, me and time -- this was a title of a very interesting article in a travel magazine. A spectacular picture of the Northern Lights is always appreciated by online media and attracts a lot of attention. Definitely, Lapland is most desirable tourist destination due to its fresh nature, Northern Lights and different climate compared to Poland. Of course, the village of Santa Claus also strengthens the attractiveness of this place. – POLAND

” Finnair has a new direct flight between Sapporo (Hokkaido) and Helsinki, and another additional flight between Haneda (closer to Tokyo metropolitan area than the current Narita International Airport) and Helsinki this coming spring, so tourism business is also going strong. – JAPAN

Helsinki is attractive

” Hotel mogul Petter Stordalen’s acquisition of the Choice hotel chain and investments in Finland have been well covered in the media, and Stordalen has said that he ‘loves Helsinki and Finnish people’. – NORWAY

” Finland is generally considered to be a good tourist destination, although an online survey that named Helsinki as the most boring travel destination in Europe received some coverage in autumn. – RUSSIA

” Helsinki was featured in a report as an organized smart city and a good place to visit museums and explore the Finnish culture. – BRAZIL

” The super-popular band BTS’s filming trip to Finland and Finnair’s launch of direct flights to Busan sparked renewed interest in Helsinki. – KOREA

” Helsinki received amusingly overwhelming compliments as ‘ecstasy for Central Europeans’, a city of ‘unpretentious naturalness’ that exudes ‘retrocharm’; the city is ‘weirder, crazier and less prettified than Copenhagen or Stockholm’. – AUSTRIA

Finns across the world

Santa Claus is still popular among children and the young-at-heart

” In May, Santa Claus’s ‘Roman holiday’ generated a number of positive headlines in the Italian media. The media that reported on the visit included Sole24Ore, Tg4, Rai Lazio’s local TV channel and the TV show La vita in diretta. – ITALY

” Santa Claus has established himself as a Finnish figure and features in the Portuguese media at Christmas. – PORTUGAL

” This year Joulupukki visited Kyiv and caused even more interest, as he had a very comprehensive programme which was widely covered and advertised in different kinds of media. – UKRAINE

Kaija Saariaho has, allegro con moto, become the most renowned Finnish artist

” According to BBC Music Magazine’s recent poll, Kaija Saariaho is the greatest living composer in the world. While J.S. Bach was voted the greatest of all time, Saariaho’s 17th position ranks her highest among living composers. – MUSIC FINLAND

” Kaija Saariaho’s opera ‘L’amour de Loin’, performed at the Palacio de Bellas Artes in Mexico, received exceptionally wide media coverage and glowing reviews. It was considered the event of the year in the country’s music scene. – MEXICO

” Tarja Turunen, who has a huge following in Colombia, performed at the popular Rock al Parque festival in Bogota at the end of June 2019, and she was one of the most anticipated performers at the event. – COLOMBIA

Most frequently mentioned artists:

Kaija Saariaho
Tarja Turunen
Jean Sibelius
Alma
Tove Jansson
Susanna Mälkki
Aki Kaurismäki
Pekka Kuusisto
Darude
Mikko Franck
Klaus Mäkelä
Dome Karukoski
Samu Haber
Saara Aalto

” The young Finnish conductor Klaus Mäkelä, who was appointed the artistic director of the Oslo Philharmonic for the period 2020-21, continued to feature in the media. Several prominent interviews with Mäkelä were shown on television and published in the press. – NORWAY

” In terms of popular music, Samu Haber is still the most famous Finn in Germany, and the breakup of the band Sunrise Avenue was also widely reported in the German media. – GERMANY

Matti Nykänen's career was commemorated across continental Europe

” Matti Nykänen's death made headlines in all major newspapers in Austria, and even made it onto the main evening news. Nykänen's Austrian fellow-jumpers were interviewed, and the ups and downs of his life story were reported thoroughly, but with great respect. – AUSTRIA

” Matti Nykänen's death was widely covered in the Slovenian media. Slovenians are very interested in news about ski jumping. Matti Nykänen was widely known in Slovenia. – SLOVENIA

” The death of the Sarajevo 1984 Olympic ski jumping hero in February 2019 prompted all the media in Bosnia and Herzegovina to report on Matti Nykänen's achievements and life. Nykänen was a 'ski jumping symbol', 'icon', 'legend'. The stories often featured a link to the YouTube video of Nykänen's large hill performance in Sarajevo. – BOSNIA AND HERZEGOVINA

Finland qualified for the European Football Championship for the first time, which meant that football and Teemu Pukki featured along with Santa Claus in the media coverage

” The fact that Finland qualified for the European Championship received a lot of positive coverage, and all the major media mentioned it. ‘Finland has its ice hockey heroes, its skiing and ski jumping legends, its javelin throwers and runners, its rally drivers and Formula One stars, but now Finland has also succeeded in football’ (VG). – NORWAY

” Finland qualifying for the European Championship – and Teemu Pukki, in particular – featured prominently in the print media, online media and on TV. – THE NETHERLANDS

” Finland’s success in the European Championship qualifiers was also widely reported in the Italian media. – ITALY

” Teemu Pukki’s achievements in the Premier League and Finland qualifying for the European Championship made headlines in sports news in the autumn, as football fanatic Korea was also once the black sheep of football. – KOREA

Most frequently mentioned sports people:

Valtteri Bottas
Kimi Räikkönen
Matti Nykänen
Teemu Pukki
Kaisa Mäkäräinen
Jari-Matti Latvala
Kaapo Kakko

” The most notable sports news stories were the Russian hockey team’s heart-breaking defeat against Finland in the Ice Hockey World Championship semi-final in May and Russia and Finland having been drawn in the same group in the European Football Championship. – RUSSIA

” The long-awaited success of the Finnish football team became a bright topic for Ukrainian sports media. – UKRAINE

What image of Finland is portrayed in the media?

- ” Finns remain viewed as progressive, content and boasting a zany sense of humour. However, some Australians still mistakenly refer to Finnish people as Scandinavian. – AUSTRALIA
- ” Finns are seen as a well-to-do nation that has managed to look after things really well [...] In 2019, the emergence of Finnish women was also highlighted: by appointing a woman as Prime Minister, Finland proved to be a model country for equality, which made many Americans aware of the country. – THE UNITED STATES
- ” Older people still see Finnish people as a somewhat distant, exotic, small northern nation that went through hard times at war and showed their guts. Younger and more international generations have a more modern image of Finland and Finnish people [...] French people see Finns as pragmatic, innovative, calm compared to Mediterranean people, sometimes a little solemn, but kind and creative people. – FRANCE

- ” What was remarkable in 2019, was that many Japanese comedians went to Finland to participate in the Finnish unique world championships. The Air Guitar contest is already quite well known, with Japanese winners in the past, but in 2019 there were comedians going to Sauna Heating World Championship, Heavy Metal Knitting World Championship, and the Mõlkky World Championship. Since these are comedians loved by the media, Finland’s unique world championships ended up being talked about a lot. – JAPAN
- ” Finns are sometimes considered crazy, in a good way (ice swimming, ‘kalsarikännit’ (‘pantsdrunk’), Puolanka’s Pessimism Days and their love for sauna and heavy metal music), and a bit more exotic than Swedes, who are known for things such as Ikea and meatballs. – AUSTRIA
- ” Finns are considered to be matter-of-fact if slightly weird people, an idea strengthened by Finnish artists visiting Belgium and special Finnish ‘sports’ such as wife-carrying and swamp football. – BELGIUM

Year after year, Finns are known as competent, honest, hard-working people

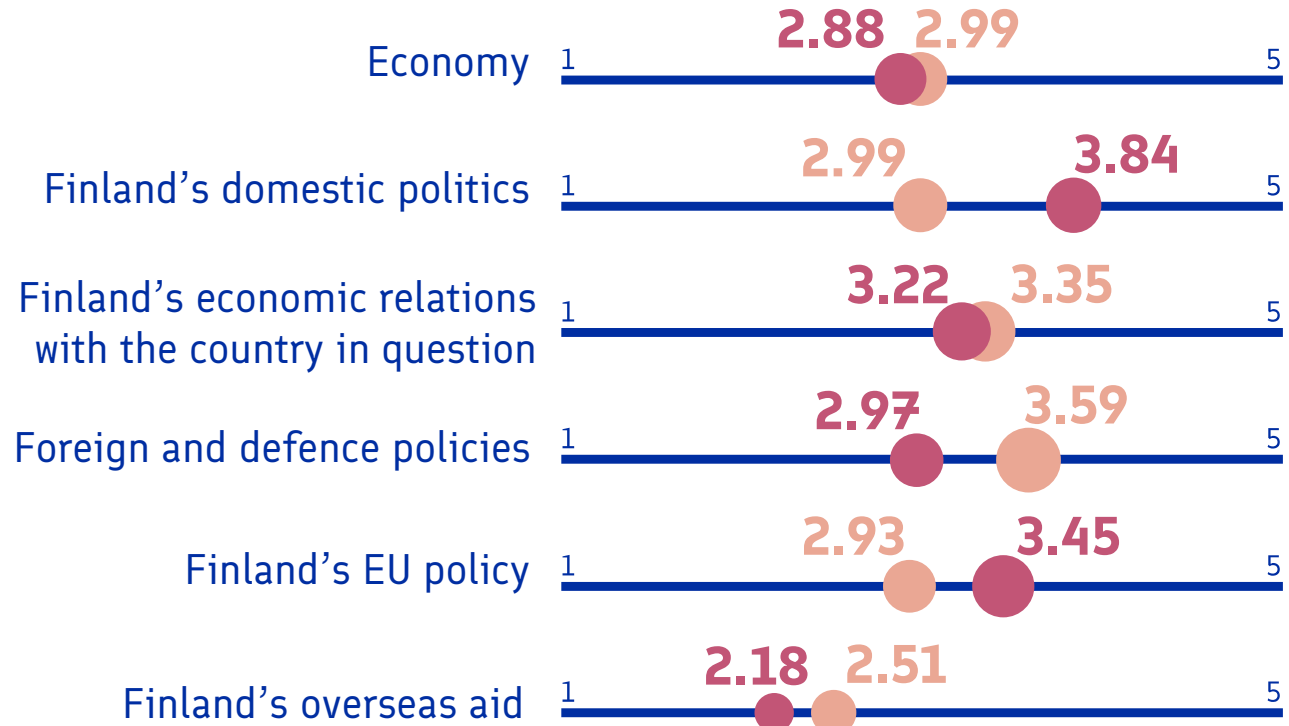

” Finland has a very good reputation; it is particularly praised for its clean nature and environment, high quality (e.g. products and food), education and for the honesty of its people. However, Finns still have a reputation for liking their drink and being a bit sullen, slow and naive. – RUSSIA

Embassy staff and media visits to Finland

EMBASSY STAFF

” The attention attracted by the country image event about food waste organised by the Embassy exceeded all expectations in social, print and online media. What they found interesting was the subject of food loss and the fight against it, and the fact that one of the owners of the restaurant Nolla, Carlos Henriques, is from Portugal. In addition to food loss and Carlos Henriques, the articles and news stories also described Finland in general. – PORTUGAL

” The Embassy of Finland in Tokyo annually calculates the number of media coverage we were directly involved in, meaning direct interviews and briefings, events and press conferences, press tours, courtesy calls, attendance of ceremonies, twitter posts or just answering media inquiries via email and phone – and the total number of media coverage was a record-breaking 1,860! – JAPAN

” The appointment of the new ambassador was what the media reported about the embassy staff. – TANZANIA

” The embassy staff were twice asked to comment on the gender issue, and the ambassador was interviewed on TV regarding the EU Presidency. – SWITZERLAND

” The Embassy of Finland in Prague has organized several events to strengthen the visibility of Finland as key European/world player in the field of education in the Czech and Slovak media. Those events have been visible in and received the attention of the media. – CZECH REPUBLIC

MEDIA VISITS

” Visits by media representatives and influencers increase and strengthen Finland’s visibility abroad and raise awareness of the key government priorities, such as action against climate change and circular economy.” – CHILE

” The embassy finds visits by media representatives and influencers useful for efforts to enhance the country’s image, and we hope that we can also send reporters to Finland in the future. Serbia is an EU candidate country, and there is demand in the Serbian media for Finland’s experience and good practices especially in the education sector, but also in other areas such as innovation, clean technologies, society and agriculture.” – SERBIA

” Organising media visits should not be left to summer workers and trainees. It is a means of influencing through professional communications that reaches millions of people at its best.” – PERMANENT REPRESENTATIVE TO THE EU

Finland in the world media

This survey was designed to examine the topics associated with Finland in international media coverage. It comprised all media, with a particular focus on newspapers.

The data is based on assessments submitted by the Finnish missions and, in the case of some countries, on externally sourced media monitoring reports. In two-thirds of the missions, media-related activities were conducted alongside other work.

The Webropol survey was conducted between December 2019 and January 2020.

A total of 75 out of 89 missions responded to the survey. Most of these were embassies. 20 answered in English

According to the missions, the most important media events were distributed in the media as follows:

“Marin and the other four female party leaders were covered in practically every medium.”

– SWEDEN

Further information by region

Sweden

- ” The biggest media event of the year was the appointment of Sanna Marin as the youngest prime minister in the world and the young, female-dominated political leadership of Finland. ”Marin and the other four female party leaders were covered in practically every medium.” The reports were positive and admiring in tone. Finland was often compared to Sweden, which has yet to have a female prime minister. Some journalists, however, questioned the glorification of youth and called for older, more experienced leaders.” – SWEDEN
- ” Early in the year, Finland’s top position in the UN happiness survey was widely covered in Sweden. It is unlikely that anyone in Sweden is unaware of the fact that Finns are the happiest nation in the world for the second year in a row. This was often presented as a surprise; Swedes’ perception of Finns has perhaps been more sullen. Many still believe that we are at the forefront of suicide statistics.” – SWEDEN
- ” Finland’s EU Presidency did not receive huge media coverage, but it did feature in some stories. Finland’s ambitious climate agenda and the EU’s goal to be carbon neutral by 2050 were often key points in these stories. Hungarian Prime Minister Viktor Orbán’s criticism of Finland was also noted. Finland’s proposal for the size of the EU’s long-term budget and Sweden’s unwillingness to accept an increase in its contribution to the EU were also reported.” – SWEDEN
- ” Finland plans to bring home the children of al-Hol camp: this was reported quite extensively in the mainstream media, as there are also Swedish children in the camp, and the policies of other countries are closely monitored. The tone was mainly neutral, but some commentators were positive, like Per Svensson, Svenska Dagbladet’s Editor-in-Chief, in his article "Finland visar vägen från al-Hol.” – SWEDEN
- ” Finland, the ice hockey world champion: many Swedish media outlets covered the ‘super surprise’ extensively: Finland’s young team with no stars exceeded all expectations by playing a great game as a team. The tone of the reports was very positive and warm, and Finland was widely congratulated and praised.” – SWEDEN
- ” Finnish men’s team qualifying for the European Football Championship for the first time: the Swedish media covered the news in a positive tone and described the event as historical. Aftonbladet even congratulated us in Finnish: ‘Onnea Suomi!’ – SWEDEN

Other Nordic countries

” Teemu Pukki’s game drew a lot of attention – particularly early in the season – in the football-mad Iceland, where the Premier League is the most popular European major series. The main daily newspapers in Iceland ran double-page spread articles about Pukki following his hat trick against Newcastle in October. Pukki featured again later in October, and the Icelandic press had already predicted that Finland would qualify for the European Championship.” – ICELAND

” The joint statement by Prime Minister Rinne and the French President, Macron, on the deadline for Brexit made headlines in September. The Jyllands-Posten newspaper quoted Rinne, who said at a press conference in Helsinki that both Finland and the EU were prepared for a no-deal Brexit. ‘We are also prepared for a no-deal Brexit.’ – DENMARK

” The results of the basic income pilot attracted some publicity in Denmark. The DR news story said that ‘Finland’s basic income pilot generated happiness but not any jobs’. The employment rate among the participants did not increase significantly with the basic income. Uffe Elbæk, leader of Alternativet – the Alternative Party – commented on the results, saying that he did not find Finland’s experiences with the basic income worrying. and that his party remains optimistic about the idea of a basic income.” – DENMARK

” Finland was the theme of the Nytt på programme on the Norwegian Broadcasting Corporation’s NRK1 channel on 25 January. The programme had the best-known Finn in Norway, Sanna Sarromaa, as its guest and also featured Finland’s results in the Good Country Index – on a prime-time show on Friday. The tone was humorous and positive, although the old clichés such as vodka, the sauna and the axe were also brought up.” – NORWAY

” Matti Nykänen’s death was the subject of most news coverage early in the year (in terms of culture and sports). The debate on his statue in Jyväskylä was also mentioned.” – NORWAY

The Baltic countries

- ” Finnish political journalists' visit to Estonia in November: a meeting with the interior minister of the nationalist populist party EKRE sparked a political storm in the country when he spoke about the so-called plan B for the region's defence collaboration. The speech led to widespread uproar in Estonia. The case was covered in all media and gave rise to the new political term 'plan B'.” – ESTONIA
- ” Finland had the most widespread media coverage early in the year, when Estonia celebrated the centenary of the War of Independence, which is essential for the country to become independent. [...] the main news in all media on the day. [...] Estonians defended Finland in the media in the early part of the year.” – ESTONIA
- ” Estonia is probably the foreign country where Finland is written about and followed more than anywhere else. There is something every day. There is not just one image of Finnish people because we are connected in many ways. One gradual change is taking place: Estonians no longer feel inferior like they used to. Finland is considered a benchmark. The division in the debate on domestic policies means that Finland is an ideal country for some people (equality issues) and for others, it is a worrying example of multiculturalism (too many people with foreign backgrounds).” – ESTONIA
- ” At the beginning of the year a Finn, Timo Riihimäki, became the CEO, new head of Rail Baltica project. Mass media in Latvia voiced big expectations that implementation of the project will proceed faster now. But in November Timo Riihimäki announced his resignation. This has disclosed problems existing in the management of the project.” – LATVIA
- ” The play 'Finlandization' by Juha Jokela was staged on National Theatre of Latvia last autumn. It was very positively received and caused a lot of discussion in mass media.” – LATVIA
- ” In 2019, Finland's Winter War was repeatedly covered in the Lithuanian media due to its jubilee year.” – LITHUANIA

Russia

” In terms of the relationship between the two countries, particular attention was paid to the meetings between Presidents Niinistö and Putin. The Winter War was mentioned, but it did not make it to the top news stories in the national media.” – RUSSIA

” Finland has a very good reputation among Russians, and this is also reflected in the way the media reports on Finland. While news reporting is mainly neutral, there are also examples of positive news stories. Finland having been selected as the happiest country in the world and Finland’s expertise in environmental issues also generated great news stories.” – RUSSIA

” There were articles about the anniversary of the start of WWII, the media coverage of which followed the official Russian historical and political interpretations, in which the responsibility for the outbreak of the war has been laid on the Western countries. Some of the negative coverage of this topic was also targeted at Finland, though Finland mostly had a minor, not very prominent, role.” – RUSSIA

” The announcement in August 2019 of the introduction of the new visa requirements, and the subsequent queues and longer processing times, sparked uproar in the media and social media for a few weeks, which inevitably weakened Finland’s reputation, at least temporarily. Although the Consulate General tried to explain in its communications and media releases why the changes had been made, some media outlets that are usually quite positive about Finland had a rant about the issue (‘Finland has betrayed the trust of the people of St. Petersburg’).” – RUSSIA

” The most widely featured event of the EU Presidency was the Green European Economy Day organised by the Consulate General, where European companies exhibited their sustainable business solutions and the media got to know the Consulate General’s recycling system in a so-called ‘waste safari’.” – RUSSIA

Europe, not including the Nordic and Baltic countries

” Sanna Marin becoming the new Prime Minister of Finland also made headlines in Germany. There were, and still are, news stories about it almost every day, and the Embassy is swamped with requests for interviews. The news was incredibly important for Finland’s image.” – GERMANY

” Finland and the Nordic countries in general were praised as models for equality. The media noted that gender equality policies have been promoted in these countries for years. Finland is used as an example in issues such as the implementation of family policies that facilitate the employment of mothers of young children. The news also highlighted Finland’s ranking in various international surveys measuring equality, and comparisons were made with the situation in Belgium.” – BELGIUM

” There was a long article about the social sector media visit that took place in 2018 in the main Irish newspaper in January 2019. The article compared life in Finland and Ireland for a family with children and for a single parent, in particular; it highlighted issues such as free school meals, housing allowances, subsidised hobbies, child health clinics, and cheap day care in Finland.” – IRELAND

” The articles on the resignation of the government in March 2019 emphasized the grounds of resignation as ‘government’s failure in realizing the health reform’. This supports Finland’s image as a well-governed country with ‘honest’ politicians and a successful control mechanism.” – TURKEY

” A programme made by the Greek national television company ERT about Finland – working title 'the Finnish pupil' – in its series about European citizens gained the most visibility in Greece. The reporter visited Finland to interview education authorities and researchers, and also visited a school to interview teachers and to observe classes. The result of the trip was an exciting 43-minute programme about Finland with Finnish music playing in the background.” – GREECE

” This EU candidate country closely follows issues related to the enlargement of the EU. The Serbian media particularly highlighted issues such as Kosovo’s participation in the meeting between the EU and the Western Balkans in August, the Council’s decision in October to postpone the opening of accession negotiations with North Macedonia and Albania, and the opening of negotiations on one chapter with Serbia in December.” – SERBIA
