

Finnish climate finance to developing countries

The poorest countries of the world are the hardest hit by the consequences of climate change. Finland supports developing countries' climate action through development cooperation. The projects aim to mitigate climate change and to support human communities and natural systems in adapting to and preparing for the changes.

Support in 2018

