

Committee against Torture

C. Principal subjects of concern and recommendations

Statute of limitations for acts of torture

6. The Committee is concerned that the crime of torture is subject to a maximum statute of limitations of 20 years for bringing charges and that only the most severe cases of torture, when the offence is committed as part of a war crime or a crime against humanity entailing a maximum penalty of life imprisonment, are not time-barred with regard to bringing charges for acts of torture (arts. 1, 2 and 4).

7. The Committee reiterates its recommendation (CAT/C/FIN/CO/5-6, para. 7) that the State party amend the Criminal Code to ensure that acts of torture are not subject to any statute of limitations.

Fundamental legal safeguards

8. The Committee is concerned at reports of:

(a) Delays in the notification of custody, which may last for several days, by persons deprived of their liberty which may last for several days, in particular foreigners without residence in the State party who do not speak Finnish;

(b) Lack of adequate health care of persons in police custody, including systematic medical screening upon arrival in police detention facilities, in particular Espoo, Imatra, Kuopio, Lahti and Vantaa police detention facilities;

(c) Absence of systematic audio and video recording of interrogations during criminal investigations and that only certain police departments have such equipment regarding the hearings of children (arts. 2, 11 and 16).

9. The State party should:

(a) Implement the legal provisions and comply with the maximum 48-hour time limit concerning notification of custody of all persons deprived of their liberty to a family member or any other person of their choice;

(b) Ensure that newly arrived detainees, including remand prisoners, receive a routine medical screening by a doctor within 24 hours of their arrival in all police detention facilities and that access to independent doctors is provided when requested by the detainee;

(c) Provide information on medical screening and access to medical care of all remand prisoners, and in particular at the Espoo, Imatra, Kuopio, Lahti and Vantaa police detention facilities;

(d) Allocate sufficient funds to systematically equip all places where pre-trial investigations take place, and in particular police stations, with CCTV, audio and video recording equipment.

Non-admissibility of evidence

10. While noting that the Code of Judicial Procedure prohibits the use of evidence obtained through torture in judicial proceedings, the Committee is concerned that Chapter 17, Section 25(3) of the Code of Judicial Procedure allow for the use of evidence obtained unlawfully if it will not prejudice a fair trial which may not exclude ill-treatment (arts. 2 and 15).

11. The Committee recommends that the State party amend the Code of Judicial Procedure to prohibit the admissibility of evidence obtained through ill-treatment in judicial proceedings and remove the provisions that give courts discretionary authority through the interpretation to use the evidence obtained unlawfully.

Non-refoulement

12. While taking note of the nearly tenfold increase in the number of asylum applications in the State party over the past year and an increase in the refugee recognition rate, the Committee is concerned that recent changes in legislation and practice may have reduced legal safeguards for asylum-seekers and increased the risk of refoulement. It is concerned at the abolishment of "humanitarian protection" as a national protection category, restrictions on legal aid for asylum seekers, the acceleration of status determination procedures which may also entail a speedy removal from the country, with a seven-day limit to apply for an enforcement ban while an appeal on a negative decision is being considered in court and may not have an automatic suspensive effect. The Committee is further concerned that victims of torture among asylum-seekers may not be effectively identified and that asylum seekers continue to be detained, in particular pending their removal from the country. It is also concerned at the absence of statistics regarding the number of asylum seekers and undocumented immigrants held in detention facilities run by the police and border guard (arts. 2, 3 and 16).

13. The State party should:

(a) Take effective legislative, judicial and administrative measures in order to maintain high quality refugee status determination procedures while complying with its obligations regarding non-refoulement under article 3 of the Convention;

(b) Ensure that all asylum requests are evaluated on an individual, case-by-case basis, that legal aid is available to asylum seekers during all stages of the proceedings, that asylum-seekers have an effective right to appeal negative decisions and that legislation which deals with the deportation of foreign citizens allows for appeals to courts against deportation orders to have a suspensive effect;

(c) Ensure that no person is expelled, returned or extradited to a country where there are substantial grounds for believing that he/she would be in danger of being subjected to torture;

(d) Ensure screening of mental health disorders and other consequences of torture trauma and provide support, appropriate specialized treatment and rehabilitation to all victims of torture among asylum seekers;

(e) Refrain from detaining asylum seekers and aliens, promote alternatives to detention, and revise its policy in order to bring it into line with the Guidelines on the Applicable Criteria and Standards relating to the Detention of Asylum Seekers and Alternatives to Detention;

(f) Set up a mechanism to monitor and provide statistics, disaggregated by sex, age, ethnicity and country of origin, on asylum seekers and undocumented immigrants detained under the Aliens Act and provide the Committee with this information.

National preventive mechanism (NPM)

14. The Committee is concerned that while the Parliamentary Ombudsman has been entrusted with the task of serving as the National Preventive Mechanism (NPM), insufficient financial or human resources have been allocated to the Ombudsman and that the NPM may not have the necessary human resources to carry out its mandate (art. 2).

15. The State party should strengthen the National Preventive Mechanism (NPM) by providing it with sufficient financial and human resources to enable it to carry out its mandate independently and effectively, in accordance with the Guidelines of the Subcommittee on Prevention of Torture and other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (SPT). It should also give consideration to the possibility of establishing the NPM as a separate entity under the Parliamentary Ombudsman, with budgetary and staffing autonomy.

Detention of remand prisoners in police detention facilities

16. While taking note of the amendments in the Prison Act and Remand Imprisonment Act and the submission to Parliament on 1 December 2016 of the Government's proposal on remand imprisonment, including that the holding of remand prisoners in police detention facilities should be discontinued at the latest by 2025, the Committee remains concerned at the lengthy detention of remand prisoners in police detention facilities, which do not meet the conditions required for holding remand prisoners, including threats that they may be subjected to ill-treatment, lack of outdoor exercise, access to television and other meaningful activities. It is also concerned that intoxicated persons continue to be held solely for intoxication in police detention facilities (arts 2, 11 and 16).

17. The State party should:

(a) Discontinue holding remand prisoners in police detention facilities and allocate appropriate financial, human and infrastructure resources to the Criminal Sanctions Agency to place remand prisoners in an appropriate place of detention;

(b) Accelerate judicial proceedings and, when feasible, apply alternatives to detention such as electronically supervised and enhanced travel bans, house arrest and bail;

(c) Maintain the legal guarantees and status of remand prisoners placed in police detention facilities and introduce genuine daily outdoor exercise, the use of television and other meaningful activities for remand prisoners;

(d) Provide information about the outcome of the Ministry of Justice working group consideration concerning the transfer of responsibility for remand prisoners held at police facilities to the administrative branch of the Justice Ministry;

(e) Ensure that intoxicated persons held solely for intoxication are placed under the supervision of appropriately qualified staff, for example in detoxification centres.

Detention of juveniles

18. While taking note that the small number of juveniles in detention makes it difficult to build separate detention facilities for that purpose, the Committee is concerned that minors are held with adult prisoners in places of detention (arts. 2, 11 and 16)

19. The Committee recommends that the State party take steps to separate juvenile detainees from adults in all places of detention, bearing in mind their best interests, in accordance with the Standard Minimum Rules for the Administration of Juvenile Justice ("The Beijing Rules") and the UN Rules for the Protection of Juveniles Deprived of Their Liberty.

Sanitary equipment in prisons

20. While recalling that in its previous concluding observations (CAT/C/FIN/CO/5-6, para. 14) a total of 222 prison cells in three different prison facilities lacked appropriate sanitary equipment, including toilet facilities, the Committee is concerned that at present, there still remain 118 cells with no toilet in 2 prison facilities, namely the Helsinki and Hameenlinna prisons, and that renovated facilities will only be in use as of 2017 (art. 11).

21. The Committee reiterates its recommendation (CAT/C/FIN/CO/5-6, para. 14) that the State party accelerate the renovation of the Helsinki and Hameenlinna prisons in order to provide cells with appropriate sanitary equipment, including toilet facilities.

Involuntary placement and treatment in psychiatric institutions

22. While taking note of the amendments to the Mental Health Act that entered into force in June 2016, the Committee is concerned that persons with mental and psychosocial disabilities may not be aware of their possibility to have access to legal remedies, including to challenge involuntary hospitalization and treatment in an administrative court, if they do not have a legal representative, a family member or other close person involved in their care (arts. 2, 12, 13 and 16).

23. The Committee recommends that the State party amend the Mental Health Act and enact clear and specific legislation that ensures effective legal safeguards, including provision of legal representation. In addition, the State party should strengthen the right to self-determination of for persons with mental and psychosocial disabilities, that their placement in psychiatric hospitals and social institutions is based on free and informed consent and that they enjoy the right of effective appeal and are able to challenge involuntary hospitalization and treatment through judicial review.

Use of restraints

24. While welcoming the announced introduction starting in May 2017 of new special buses where persons deprived of liberty will be separated, the Committee is concerned at reports that persons deprived of their liberty who are transported from one location to another are handcuffed for the duration of the transfer, although the law prescribes the use of physical restraints as a discretionary and not a routine measure. It is also concerned that a restraint bed continues to be used in one police station (arts 2, 11 and 16).

25. The State party should amend legislation with a view to strictly regulating the use of physical restraints with regard to persons deprived of their liberty and should end the practice of handcuffing persons deprived of their liberty during transport. The use of restraint beds in police stations should be abolished.

Use of electric discharge weapons (tasers) and other crowd control weapons

26. The Committee is concerned at reports that electric discharge weapons (tasers) have been used by police officers on a number of occasions in closed environments such as police stations. It is also concerned about the use of compressed air riot weapons FN303 during demonstrations which can cause serious injuries (arts. 11 and 16).

27. The State party should ensure that electrical discharge weapons are used exclusively in extreme and limited situations, where there is a real and immediate threat to life or risk of serious injury, as a substitute for lethal weapons, and by trained law enforcement personnel only. The State party should revise the regulations governing the use of such weapons, with a view to establishing a high threshold for their use, and expressly prohibit their use on children and pregnant women. The Committee is of the view that electrical discharge weapons should be subject to the principles of necessity and proportionality and should not form part of the equipment of custodial staff in prisons or any other places of deprivation of liberty. The Committee recommends the State party to provide more stringent instructions and adequate training to law enforcement personnel authorized to use electric discharge weapons, and to strictly monitor and supervise their use through mandatory recording, reporting and review of each use. Stringent instructions and adequate training should also be applied to the use of compressed air riot weapons FN303.

Violence against women and domestic violence

28. The Committee is concerned at the prevalence of violence against women in the State party, including domestic and sexual violence, the underreporting of cases and at the lack of funding allocated to tackle it. It is also concerned that rape continues to be categorized according to the degree of physical violence and not the lack of consent, by the reported lack of sufficient support to victims, including specialized services, as well as at the absence of a sufficient number of shelters for victims of violence and their children. The Committee is further concerned that forced marriage is not included in the Criminal Code as a distinct criminal offence (arts. 2, 12, 13, 14 and 16).

29. The State party should:

(a) Draw up a new National Action Plan to Reduce Violence against Women, ensure it receives adequate funding and effectively implement the key provisions of the Council of Europe Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence (Istanbul Convention);

(b) Establish an effective and independent complaints mechanism for victims of domestic violence;

(c) Ensure that all allegations of domestic violence, including sexual violence and violence against children, are registered by the police and are promptly, impartially and effectively investigated and the perpetrators prosecuted and punished;

(d) Ensure that victims of domestic violence benefit from protection, including restraining orders, and have access to medical and legal services, including counselling, as well as redress, including rehabilitation;

(e) Revise the definition of rape in national legislation so that it includes lack of consent, increase the number of rape crisis centres and ensure a higher rate of reporting; strengthen the "Support Services for Victims of Sexual Violence" and develop a low-threshold service network that also provides long-term support;

(f) Provide safe and adequately funded shelters for victims and their children, including in relation to the so-called "honour-based" violence, throughout the country;

(g) Provide mandatory training for police and other law enforcement officials, social workers, judges and prosecutors on the legislation criminalizing violence against women and on the vulnerabilities of victims of gender-based and domestic violence, including child victims;

(h) Include forced marriage as a distinct criminal offence in the Criminal Code.

Trafficking in persons

30. The Committee is concerned that victims of trafficking in the State party do not always receive adequate protection and recognition. It is concerned that the identification of and support to persons trafficked for the purpose of sexual exploitation is linked to criminal proceedings and that the recovery period is only provided to nationals and residents of the State party. In addition such persons are reported to often be subjected to swift removals from the State party, without being offered assistance. It is also concerned that law enforcement, immigration and other personnel who come into contact with victims of human trafficking lack systematic training and guidelines that would enable them to better identify and support the victims (arts. 2, 10, 12, 13, 14 and 16).

31. The State party should:

(a) Implement international and domestic anti-trafficking legislation and develop an integrated and coordinated counter-trafficking framework;

(b) Take effective measures to prevent and eradicate human trafficking, draft guidelines and provide specialized training to law enforcement, immigration and other public officials coming into contact with victims of trafficking on identifying victims and on investigating, prosecuting and sanctioning perpetrators;

(c) Increase the protection of and provide redress to victims of trafficking, including free legal aid, medical and psychological aid and rehabilitation, as well as access to adequate shelters and assistance in reporting incidents of trafficking to the police; grant a recovery period to all victims of trafficking and prevent the return of trafficked persons to their countries of origin where there are substantial grounds to believe that they would be in danger of torture.

Training

32. While noting the various forms of training provided to public officials, the Committee is concerned that training on the prohibition of torture is only provided to the Border Guard and not to all persons coming into contact with persons deprived of their liberty. It is also concerned that training of personnel in police prisons has been considered uneven by the Parliamentary Ombudsman and that information on training of public officials is not collected in a systematic manner and there were no available assessments of the training programs. It is also concerned that training on the Manual on the Effective Investigation and Documentation of Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (the Istanbul Protocol) is not provided to all medical professionals and other officials dealing with persons deprived of liberty (art. 10).

33. The State party should:

(a) Make training on the provisions of the Convention and the absolute prohibition of torture mandatory for all law enforcement personnel, in particular those coming into contact with persons detained in police detention facilities;

(b) Collect information on training of law enforcement personnel and public officials in a systematic manner and develop and implement specific methodologies to assess its effectiveness and impact;

(c) Ensure that the Istanbul Protocol is made an essential part of the training for all medical professionals and other public officials involved in work with persons deprived of their liberty;

(d) Put in place training programmes on non-coercive investigation techniques in line with the recommendations of the Special Rapporteur on torture.

Follow-up procedure

34. The Committee requests the State party to provide, by 7 December 2017, information on follow-up to the Committee's recommendations on the national preventive mechanism, on the transfer of responsibility for remand prisoners held at police facilities to the administrative branch of the Ministry of Justice and on the separation of juvenile detainees from adults in all places of detention (see paras. 15, 17(d) and 18)). In the same context, the State party is invited to inform the Committee about its plans for implementing within the coming reporting period, some or all of the remaining recommendations in the concluding observations.

Other issues

35. The Committee invites the State party to ratify the core United Nations human rights treaties to which it is not yet party, namely, the International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families and the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance.

36. The State party is requested to disseminate widely the report submitted to the Committee and the present concluding observations, in appropriate languages, through official websites, the media and non-governmental organizations.

37. The State party is invited to submit its next periodic report, which will be the eighth periodic report, by 7 December 2020. For that purpose, and in view of the fact that the State party has agreed to report to the Committee under the simplified reporting procedure, the Committee will, in due course, transmit to the State party a list of issues prior to reporting. The State party's replies to that list of issues will constitute its eighth periodic report under article 19 of the Convention.
